Excise Commissioner Scibert now feels confident that his inquiry into the conduct of saloons in different parts of the city is beginning to take a definite form, that will result in much good, although he asserts that it is his purpose to be equitable in every instance. Yesterday's trials were probably the most important that have taken place since the investigation began. Mr. Selbert will be absent from the city to-day, returning to-night, and to-day's proceedings will be conducted by Judgo John M. Wood, who has been assisting the Commissioner since the inquiry was inaugurated. A notable feature of yesterday's trials was the second of the conducted by day's trials was the testimony of several policemen, who had entered complaints policemen, who had entered complaints against some saloons, and on the stand failed to confirm the reports which they had sent to headquarters.

Bryant Freeley, who has a saloon at No. 25 South Seventh street, testified that there is a hotel over his saloon and that he has a sitting-room in the rear of his place. Officer Mahon said this hotel formerly was frequented by men and women, but he has not observed anything improper for six months or so. The same officer testified that there is an immoral place adjoining the saloon of Harry Joachim at No. 600 Elm street, but he pronounced the saloon all right. He said that there is music in the saloon nearly every night.

Joe Zanoni testified that there is a room in the rear of his saloon, at No. 1301 Pine street. On the second floor there is a hotel, from which a person could come down to the room. He stated that there is no un-derstanding between him and the manager of the hotel.

There is a stairway from the hall of the hotel upstairs to the room in the saloon. The place upstairs is an improper place, run under the guise of a hotel."

"Who owns this property?" Mr. Seibert queried. "I don't know," Weaver repiled, "but I've heard that Zanoni does."

Zanoni was recalled and admitted that he owns the building, but modified his testimony by saying his agent does the renting.

David Nelson testified that there are two rooms in his saloon, but he did not designate them as winerooms. Officer Dooley declared that drinks are served to men and women in the rooms, but he would not recommend the revocation of the license. Officer Carr characterized the place as reputable, and corroborated Dooley's statement.

John Fletcher of Fletcher & Keicher, No. 230 Olive street, said the two rooms in his saloen are not winerooms. He said a hotel is conducted on the second floor by a man who subleases the story from him. Three witnesses, one of them a physician, took the stand in the firm's behalf.

The other cases tried were the following: Charles Minneceni, No. 1231 Pine street; John P. Pensa, No. 2300 Washington avenue, and George Steele, No. 2300 Olive street. Many cases remain on the docket and the trials will continue daily for several weeks.

Appealing only to those who desire life insurance for the protection it gives, and not for the speculation that can be made out of it, the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company has gone on its way undisturbed. Colonel Greene tells the members of his company that the results shown by the fifty-fifth statement have been equaled by no other American company. In spite of the most active competition, business has increased, dividends have been liberal, and surplus has grown to a point where, even in the event of an unprecedented death rate due to some dire calamity, it makes protection to the assured certain beyond peradventure. Where in many companies the expense of management has necreased by three or four times that of the years before the craze for "new business it any cost" affected many companies, that of the Connecticut Mutual has been cept down until it is to-day a model of conomical and safe management. Just how this was done Colonel Greene tells nost interestingly in his statement to nembers of his company, to whom he exhaline how and why results claimed for the 'modern methods' fall far short of promess.

The Traction Company was formed by merging together two home companies that were recently competing for an electric street railway franchise. The, company asked for the city lighting contract, amounting to 8,000 per annum as a sort of a bonus. The Board of Public Affairs opened the bids for city lighting to-day and it was found that the Pine Bluff Light and Water Company, which had been doing the city lighting for fifteen years past, was the lowest bidder, but they will not build the car line. They threatened to sue if the contract is given to the traction company, and the traction company will not build the car line without it. The board will advise themselves as to the legal phases and award the lighting contract on Wednesday.

jected To-New Philippine Amendment Agreed Upon.

Washington, Feb. 26.-An important amendment to the Philippines amendment to the army bill was agreed to in the Senate to-day. It was an amplification of the amendment previously offered by Mr. Hoar, laying restrictions upon the sale of public lands, and the granting of franchises and concessions in the Philippines.

It was accepted by the committee in charge of the measure, and is now a part of the committee amendment. Mr. Morgan of Alabama continued his speech, begun yesterday, and occupied the floor during the greater part of the day.

He concluded his address just before the afternoon recess, after having discussed comprehensively both the Philippine and Cuban amendments. He appealed to the ittee to withdraw both propositions, maintaining that Congress was treading upon dangerous ground, and trifling with edged tools in acting upon them without Allen's Attack on Sampson.

When consideration of the army appropriation bill was resumed, Mr. Morgan yielded the floor temporarily to Mr. Allen of Nebraska. After saying that he was satisfied, the Philippine amendment and the Cuban amendment to the pending bill were unconstitutional, and objecting to the conferring of such extraordinary power upon the President, Mr. Allen read a letter purporting to have been sent by Chief Gunner Charles Morgan of the navy to Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, requesting him to forward to the Navy Department his application for promotion to the rank of ensign, under a provision of the pending naval appropriation bill.

He also read the indorsement of Admiral Sampson made upon the application of Gunner Morgan, in the course of which the

He also read the indorsement of Admiral Sampson made upon the application of Gunner Morgan, in the course of which the Admiral is represented as saying, in brief, that while he recognized Gunner Morgan's technical and professional ability, he was opposed to appointing warrant officers to the grade of ensign, because they had not enjoyed the social advantages which, Admiral Sampson heid, a commanding officer of the navy should have enjoyed in order that he might represent properly his country in foreign countries, particularly.

The indorsement of Admiral Sampson expressed the Admiral's hope that the Secretary of the Navy would not find it necessary to recommend the promotion of warrant officers of the navy to the rank of command officers.

Mr. Allen said the indorsement proved beyond a shadow of doubt that there was a smobbish aristocracy in the navy that is letrimental to the country, and a disgrace to the country, represented by this officer and other like officers.

"If William T. Sampson is the author of those indorsements," declared Mr. Allen, with vehemence, "he is a conceited ass and he ought to be marked down as such. We are not bringing up in this country a race of snobs. If I am correctly informed, there was a time when Sampson was no better than Charles Morgan, the gunner.

LENZ PRECIPITATED SENSATION. secused Speaker of Exercising Cen-Washington, Feb. 26.-The House was the cene of a sensational incident late this fternoon, which threw that body into a violent state of excitement. For an hour the storm raged, ending abruptly when an adjournment was taken, upon motion of Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the ma-

Mr. Lentz, an Ohio Democrat, who has created many sensations during his service in the House, stirred the Democrats to a fever pitch by rising to a question of privilege and alleging that a speech he had turned over to the Public Printer, under general leave to print, had been withheld from the record, and had been turned over to General Grosvenor of Ohio by the Speaker.

Speaker.

The nature of the speech was not developed during the events that followed, but it was learned that it was an attack upon Benator Hanna, and the methods by which he was elected to the Senate.

The Speaker explained that it had been reported to him that the speech violated the privileges of the House, and he had directed that it should be withheld until he could look over it. Pressure of business had prevented him from doing so, however, and only twenty minutes before, he said, he had directed that the speech go into the Record, believing that if it contained anything offensive it could be stricken out of the record by the House later.

Intense excitement followed. Several points of order were made by Republicans, but the Speaker declined to sidetrack the matter in that way, holding, however, that to proceed a proposition of some kind must be before the House.

Thereupon Mr. Richardson, the Democratic leader, offered a resolution declaring that the Speaker and no right to withhold speeches. Against this the question of consideration was raised by Mr. Lacey, and by a strict party vote the House decided not to consider it.

Amid still greater excitement and confusion, Mr. Richardson offered another resolution condemning the Speaker's action in terms, and directing that the speech be "delivered forthwith" to the Public Printer. Again Mr. Lacey raised the question of consideration, and again, by a strict party vote, the House refused to consider it.

At this point, further proceedings were cut off by an adjournment taken on motion of Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the majority, and again sustained by a strict party vote. The controversy probably will be resumed to-morrow.

Earlier in the day, a partial conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to, and the bill was sent back to conference. The Western members made an ineffectual effort to accept the Senate amendment appropriating $100,000 for irrigation experiments on the Gila River a Arizona, but they were defeated—$5 to $7.

William Sullivan. William Sullivan, an employe of the St Louis Tranfer Company, must either pay his wife $40 or go to the Workhouse. was the ruling of Judge Sidener in the First District Police Court yesterday morning. Sullivan was arraigned on a charge of disturbing the peace of his wife. It was alleged that he struck her. In the course of the proceedings it developed that they quarreled over the household economy. Judge Sidener, after hearing the testimony, decided that the wife's testimony was true, and said he would give Sullivan a chance. "I will continue this case for one week." said the Court. "If, when you come up here again, your wife tells me that you paid her $40, I will discharge you. If you do not pay her the money, I will send you to the Workhouse or make you pay the amount to the city."

Sullivan pleaded that he wanted enough left to pay his own board somewhere, and his salary was only $44. Judge Sidener told him to return home and live with his wife and family. was the ruling of Judge Sidener in the First
